

A Different Perspective on Big Data

ROBERT D. ATKINSON | OCTOBER 2018

At the sixth annual fall conference hosted by the Center for the Protection of Intellectual Property , Rob Atkinson participated in a panel discussing "A Different Perspective on Big Data."

On October 11-12, 2018, the Center for the Protection of Intellectual Property hosted its Sixth Annual Fall Conference, IP for the Next Generation of Technology, at Antonin Scalia Law School, George Mason University. Rob Atkinson participated in a panel discussing A Different Perspective on Big Data. The conference addressed how IP rights and institutions can foster and support this technological advance, whether it is in the development of the Internet of Things (IOT), the use of Big Data, the deployment of 3D printing, continued advances in streaming media, or in the myriad new business models that will arise from these technological and commercial innovations.
